Lack of gangs could be due to legal highs

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

RESEARCH by a community safety group has shown that a possible shift towards younger people taking 'legal highs' may be indirectly responsible for the lack of gang activity in MK.

SaferMK, a multi-agency group featuring Thames Valley Police and Milton Keynes Council, has carried out assessment work into why the number of city gangs is declining.

It says the reduction in such activity may relate to decreasing levels of drug consumption, with police figures showing a 32.59 per cent drop in drug offences between 2011 and 2013.

But the research suggests that the lack of drug activity may in turn be down to the rise of NPS drugs – also known as legal highs – both nationally and locally.

Data provided by Public Health England shows that during the third quarter of 2013/14, Compass – a young people's drug and alcohol service – engaged with a disproportionately high level of NPS users in MK.

Nationally, one per cent of Compass' service users during this period reported NPS to be their first drug of choice, but in MK this figure was six per cent.

But Colin Wilderspin, head of community safety for MK Council and part of SaferMK, said: "It is not a good thing to take NPS and we would still like to see them banned."

NPS can be easily bought online and in August 2013 police raided stalls at Milton Keynes market and Wolverton Agora as there were health concerns over the substances being sold there.

Milton Keynes MP Iain Stewart added it was time for 'a proper debate' over how easy it is to access legal highs.

Pub's bouncer 'distressed' at racist attack

A MAJOR pub chain has said it will not tolerate racist behaviour towards staff after a 25-year-old man was fined following a 'distressing' attack.

Daniel Evans, of Taranis Close, Wavendone Gate, was asked to leave The Secklow Hundred pub in The Hub by a member of door staff at 1am on April 20.

He then racially abused the member of staff and tried to hit them. He was arrested and charged on the same day.

Evans pleaded guilty to one count of racially aggravated common assault and a separate count of racially aggravated intentional harassment at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on May 20.

He was fined £125 and ordered to pay £50 compensation, a £20 victim surcharge and £85 court costs for the assault.

He was also fined £215 for the harassment charge.

Eddie Gershon, a spokesman for J D Wetherspoon, which runs the pub, said: " This was a very distressing situation for the door staff and in spite of this they handled the situation superbly.

"Our staff do not deserve to be abused in this manner and we are pleased that the person involved has been dealt with by the courts.

"Wetherspoon will not tolerate any behaviour of this kind."

PC Dawn Washburn, of Thames Valley Police, added: "The behaviour which Evans demonstrated on this night was an offence and illegal.

"Racially aggravated assault and harassment is unacceptable and there will be consequences for this kind of behaviour.

"This fine should act as a warning to others who may not fully consider the consequences of their actions.

"This kind of illegal behaviour could result in a very expensive night out."

Homes may be built next year

A WAVENDON councillor has admitted he would rather not see 2,460 houses built there.

Five sites have been set aside as part of the Strategic Land Allocation for Wavendon, which will include three schools, two primary and one secondary, as well as a community pavilion and centres to serve the playing fields north of Wavendon church.

Development is likely to start next year and could take more than 10 years to complete.

"While we would have preferred that it did not happen, we have been aware since 2004 that this development would take place," said Councillor David Hopkins, chairman of Wavendon Parish Council.

The Eagle Farm site where about 410 houses are due to be built is set to be discussed at Milton Keynes Council's development control committee meeting tomorrow.

A proposal to build a community centre in Manifold Lane, Shenley Brook End, is also on the agenda.

Some say he's a Top Gear star, the BBC say – he's not The Stig

Guess who: The Stig pictured at Motorama in Olney on June 8. The BBC has since confirmed that it was in fact an impersonator who attended the event

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

THEY thought he was the real Top Gear star – but it turns out The Stig didn't really turn up to Motorama at all.

Organisers for the event, run by Newport Pagnell & Olney Lions Club, were delighted when what appeared to be the genuine Stig once again turned up on June 8.

But shortly after pictures of The Stig were published in last week's MK NEWS and on our website – mkweb.co.uk – the BBC got in touch with the club's fundraising chairman, John Ferris, to break the news that their star guest was merely an impressionist.

John told MK NEWS: "This guy has been coming along for four years. He doesn't charge for coming along, he does it off his own back and goes round with a can to help us get donations.

"I managed to speak with him last year and he took out a Top Gear badge and he said there were six to eight people who went around and attended these kind of events.

"It had a Top Gear logo on it and it was like a laminated pass, so I took it to be authentic. We never really had any reason to doubt the guy.

"But the BBC called and pointed out to us that the guy had no authority and that we can no longer refer to him as The Stig." John admitted the news was a blow to Motorama, as the attraction of the TV star had pulled in a lot of donations to keep the popular motor event running.

And he added that organisers had since spoken with the Stig impersonator, who is believed to have paid up to £3,500 to imitate the costume of the mysterious figure.

John added: "He said he never wanted to get us in any trouble, he just enjoyed helping people raise money. But we want to encourage him to contact the BBC and talk about it.

"There's no shadow of a doubt that the guy doesn't get any personal gain, but we understand where the BBC are coming from.

"It's disappointing as we are not able to charge for the event. We rely on people putting money in cans and donating. We are a big enough organisation to bring in the money but we will probably suffer because of it."

The character is a huge hit on the BBC2 TV show, which is presented by Jeremy Clarkson, James May and Richard Hammond.

The Stig's true identity is one of the most closely protected secrets of the television industry.

A BBC spokesman told MK NEWS: "All we can confirm is that this was not the real Stig."

Labour may look at turning right

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

THE new Labour administration is aiming to launch a review of road safety – and right hand turns – following a series of deaths.

In the past year six people have died on the city's grid roads and now Labour is concerned coroner Tom Osborne could start asking what is being done about the issue if further deaths arise.

There have also been a number of high profile accidents on 'turn right' junctions across the city, including a three-car crash in Hodge Lea in early May.

During the recent local election campaign, Labour highlighted road safety issues and had promised a review.

Now, after recently becoming the largest party at Milton Keynes Council, the new cabinet is expected to carry out a review beginning in July.

The new cabinet member for highways, Cllr Mick Legg, said: "Road safety is something that many people have raised as an issue with us over the past year, particularly because of some very tragic accidents and incidents.

"It has become more imperative as we know that if we do not look at it then the coroner could rightly start asking some tough questions.

"Our grid roads are what make MK special, but this will be an objective look at the evidence which can help us decide what action we can take to make it a safer place."

Council leader Pete Marland added: "There are some dangerous right turns in my own ward in Wolverton, so it's right we carry out a review."

Motherly love: Jo Wright welcomes her pilot son James as he lands at The Hazeley Academy

Students land a Navy pilot

A ROYAL Navy officer gave students a nice surprise when he landed his helicopter at his old school.

Lieutenant James Wright used to be an IT worker at The Hazeley Academy, but has since found success training as a pilot at RAF Shawbury in Shropshire.

But he stopped in last Wednesday to give students the chance to look around the helicopter and pay a visit to mum Jo Wright, the school's business director.

Emma Gough, PA to principal Mark Bennison, said: "It gave students a chance to look at all the jobs available out there to them."

A MAN was left unconscious after being hit several times in the head - just so thieves could steal his Xbox One console.

At 5.15am on Friday, the victim was walking in Old Wolverton Road, near the junction with Slated Row, when two men cycled past and asked to borrow a lighter. As he placed the console on the floor to get a lighter out, one snatched the Xbox. The victim tried to grab it back but the second man hit him over the head several times.

Witnesses to the attack should call police on 101.

'Misery' of broadband

WHEN I heard the news that finally fibre optic broadband would be installed in Walton Grange I breathed a sigh of relief.

However, now BT has delivered a shock by moving the Walton Grange upgrade to summer 2015.

I am very saddened and disheartened with this news.

It has been two years and eight months since I moved to this area and I have been suffering a lot. It's high time this area was looked at so that there can be an end to this misery.

I work in IT and rely on having decent broadband. Every now and then we have a webex meeting, and while I have flexibility of working from home, because of the unreliable broadband speed I have to go to into the office near London. I face a total commute of 120 miles.

Also, I can't communicate with relatives in India via Skype because the line keeps dropping out due to the poor broadband.

Please have mercy on us BT – how long do we have to suffer?

Bowled over by article

HOW great it was to read the MK NEWS feature on The National Bowl last week.

It brought back many happy memories and a reminder of my first ever visit to the then still very new New Town on a soggy day in June 1982 to see the full line-up of Genesis.

I was struck by the cleanliness of the town and the absence of any visual housing as I travelled by free shuttle bus from the central train station to the bowl.

Little did I know that two years later I would work and live in Milton Keynes, becoming, with my then girlfriend, one of the first residents of Great Holm, moving down from one of my other favourite cities, Leeds.

Later I became a councillor, spending 16 years representing Stony Stratford, got married and had a wonderful family. MK was then, and remains, a city of opportunity.

The bowl is remembered, not just for its rock music, but also its Proms In The Park and Children's Day at the Bowl. It would be nice to see them return.

Over the years I have attended many of the events you wrote of and many that you did not. These include ZZ Top, Jethro Tull and AC/DC. There must be much memorabilia in Milton Keynes of the bowl and it would be great if an exhibition could be held to celebrate this iconic venue.

Voting for fairer system

WHAT an entertaining evening it was at the annual meeting of Milton Keynes Council when the new leader and cabinet were installed.

A question of the 'balance' of the council was raised by a Conservative councillor. They pointed out that as far as total votes were concerned, although the ruling party, Labour, had won more seats, they had received less votes than the Tories.

This is undoubtably a historical 'first' because never, within living memory, have the Tories spoken in favour of council seats reflecting public votes. No, as long as it has suited them, the unrepresentative system of First Past The Post will do nicely, thank you!

The Lib Dems agreed that it was only fair that seats should reflect votes. But chuckles among councillors and the public descended into wholescale mirth when the sole UKIP councillor claimed that they had polled more votes than the Lib Dems. Joking aside, there is a serious issue here.

Putting our ward system to one side, on total votes cast Labour and the Tories would have about 17 seats each, Lib Dems and UKIP about 11 each and the Green Party one seat.

However, as the election was for all council seats, taking the top vote of each party in each ward might be a better indication of the voters' wishes. Then the council would probably look like: Labour 17; Conservatives 16; UKIP 12; Lib-Dems nine; Greens three.

Not only is the council 'unbalanced'; in Milton Keynes six out of 10 voters didn't bother to vote in the recent elections. Of course the question of local councils having to carry out the massive cutbacks imposed by the Government to our cherished services weakens people's attitudes to local authorities.

The current voting system also encourages a negative attitude and fears of 'wasted votes'.

There are growing calls for fairer representation in local government. One suggestion is that local councils should have the power to determine their own form of voting system through a referendum. This would help to end the apathy, cynicism and lack of engagement in local democracy.

What a bright proposal

IT IS fantastic that we could be getting a solar farm here ('Plans for £8m solar farm are submitted', MK NEWS, June 11).

OCCASIONALLY I buy a lottery ticket.

Not because I'm interested in winning, but, if I did, to prove to myself that enormous wealth rarely brings with it happiness.

I'm prepared to take that risk in the name of research.

And I never enter competitions on the television that promise cars, cash, gadgets and the like, because the chances of winning appear slim. I often wonder, though, what ratio of winners of these competitions are from the free web entry rather than the £1.54 phone call entries. Pretty low, I suspect.

And so to the most irritating of competitions currently being promoted by a local radio station, where listeners pay 52p from a BT landline to guess three names. It's been going on for months!

I'd be more interested to know who the people are that keep ringing rather than the three celebrities they're trying to guess!

And who has a BT landline anymore? Goodness knows what the charge is when you call via Sky or Talk Talk, or any other telephone provider. I'm guessing it's not cheaper.

Older readers may remember Horizon Radio and, before that, Chiltern Radio. Local stations that provided local news coverage from a dedicated team of locally based journalists.

If more FM broadcast licences were available, then genuinely local outlets such as Secklow Sounds and MKFM might have the chance of some success.

Google praises smart 999 app

Acclaim: Rob Pickering, director of ipcortex, was one of the team to come up with the app idea

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

A FIRM has won the acclaim of Google with an application that could revolutionise the emergency services.

ipcortex, a business communications vendor based at Bletchley Park, won a Google-sponsored prize to develop an app for the telecoms market at TADHack – the Telecoms Application Development Hackathon.

The winning entry, RTC Emergency, takes a normal emergency call made on a smartphone and passes on location information, accurate to within a few metres of the incident, to the operator.

It also allows emergency call centre operators to view a real time video feed of an unfolding incident via the caller's smartphone.

This is done via a web browser that is sent to the phone through text message.

With 'eyes on the scene', call centre operators could more effectively engage response teams, even sharing the video with those en route to ensure that they are fully briefed and prepared.

And the award-winning idea was fuelled by 'a visit to a local pub', said ipcortex director Rob Pickering. Entrants to the competition were tasked with creating an innovative app in a very short period of time.

More than 60 development teams from all over the world submitted their entries, both directly at the event in Madrid, Spain, and via six satellite events across America, Europe and Asia.

Although the app may not come to fruition for a few years, Rob added: "For Google to award us this prize, in an international competition against some very well executed projects from all over the world, is fantastic."

PLANS to build a waterway connecting Milton Keynes with Bedford are on course.

Graham Mabbutt, joint-chairman of the Bedford and Milton Keynes Waterway Trust, says planning permission has been granted for the area between the Grand Union Canal at Campbell Park to Magna Park and he expects permission to be given at Eagle Farm North.

"It looks like everything can happen but the problem now is getting the money to do it," said Mr Mabbutt, who added that construction is still between five and 10 years away from starting.

A vintage ride around Britain

WHEN vintage biker John Wallis sets out from Milton Keynes Museum on a gruelling round-the-British-coast journey, he won't be the oldest thing on the road.

The 65-year-old, from Blakelands, will be tackling the 4,000-mile challenge on his Brough Superior, MR 403 motorbike, which has just celebrated its 90th birthday.

Built in the same year Howard Carter uncovered the tomb of Tutankhamun, John was given the bike by his father – who bought it for ten shillings (50p) in 1961 after discovering it as a wreck in a Kettering allotment.

John said: "It is, of course, my 65th as well and so the two anniversaries complement each other I think. It would have been good to do it in 10 years' time when it will be a ton but I can't wait that long!"

John sets off at 10am on Wednesday, June 25 and hopes to finish the challenge in four weeks.

Dentist paid for free treatments

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

A DENTIST has been allowed to continue practising – despite being paid for treatment that was readily available to patients on the NHS.

Charges of misconduct were upheld against Dr Matthew Brooks, of Broughton Dental Practice, during a hearing by the General Dental Council on June 9.

Dr Brooks accepted that he referred two patients for private periodontal treatment between 2008 and 2012 when both were eligible for care on the NHS. The hearing heard how Dr Brooks believed some of the work carried out, such as panoral radiographs, were not available on the NHS and that it was his policy, as well as other partners at the practice, to charge privately for the work.

Although it is reported that the financial gain to the practice from the two patients was just £60, the committee found his conduct fell 'seriously below standards'.

But despite his misconduct he will be allowed to continue practising, as the committee believed his failure was an 'omission' rather than a 'deliberate intent to mislead'.

The chairman of the council's professional conduct committee ruled: "There should be no doubt as to the seriousness of your misconduct. However, in all the circumstances, the committee finds that your fitness to practise is not currently impaired by reason of that misconduct."

They concluded there is 'little, if any, risk of repetition'.

MK NEWS contacted Broughton Dental Practice to speak to Dr Brooks but he was not available for comment.

Life for stabbing lover in the face

BY JULIA SUTTON
editor@mk-news.co.uk

A BUSINESSWOMAN who stabbed her lesbian lover in bed in a row over cash has been given a life sentence.

Married mother-of-two Chooi Cheung, pictured, slashed the throat of Chinese restaurant chef Leng Hie Teong, 38, with a Jamie Oliver kitchen knife at her Fishermead home.

Then as her lover tried to fight back she stabbed her twice in the face.

Cheung, 53, of Birmingham, was found guilty of a charge of attempted murder by Judge Richard Foster at Luton Crown Court on Thursday.

The women had first met in 2007 and within months the pair had began a sexual relationship together.

In the years that followed Cheung leant her lover around £38,000. The prosecution outlined that Cheung, realising she wasn't going to get a penny back and fearing Miss Tiong was about to return to Malaysia, hatched a plot to murder her.

By December last year Ms Tiong, who was known as August, was working as a chef for another employer at Zen Garden in Central Milton Keynes.

Shortly after 10pm on Wednesday, December 11, 2013 she cycled home from work to a house she shared with a co-worker in Padstow Avenue.

Tiong told the court that as she and Cheung went to bed, she heard her lover get up and return with a knife.

What do you think to the sentence? Tell us at www.mkweb.co.uk

She said: "She was using a knife, pressing it against my neck. There was blood on my body and I screamed. Then the knife was in my mouth and I was screaming."

Cheung had told the jury she was acting in self defence while being hit herself, adding: "I didn't know it was a knife in my hand at the time."

Passing sentence Judge Foster told Cheung: "I am satisfied you were furious with her for using some of that money to help her family in Malaysia and you thought she was intent on moving there and abandoning you."

He sentenced her to life imprisonment telling her the minimum term she must serve before she can even be considered for release by the parole board is 10 years.

A421 and Kingston Roundabout 'Pinch Point' improvement works

Work started on 16 June 2014

What's happening?

1km of the A421 from east of Fen Roundabout will be upgraded to a dual carriageway. At the same time, Kingston roundabout will be improved to relieve congestion at this other 'pinch point' area.

Milton Keynes Council's £16m project includes £8.81m of grant funding which it successfully secured through the Government's Pinch Point bid process in mid-2013.

Milton Keynes Council has awarded the contract to Balfour Beatty who will carry out the improvement works.

Why?

The A421 is major road for eastern Milton Keynes, providing a route to Junction 13 of the M1 and sees a high volumes of traffic at all times of the day. With future development areas nearby, the volume of traffic will increase and therefore we are making these improvements now so that future needs are met early.

When?

Site clearance work was completed in February and the main work will now commence on 16 June 2014.

The work is planned to be complete by Summer 2015.

There may be some delays whilst the work is being done however every effort is being made to minimise disruption.

Anger at delay in BT upgrade

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

RESIDENTS living on an estate are angry at BT's decision to delay an upgrade to their broadband.

People in Walton Grange were told as recently as last month that work would take place this summer, but that has now been put back to next year.

The estate, just south of the Open University, has no community facilities, meaning quicker broadband is vital for residents shopping online and checking emails.

For Emma Best, of Brailsford Way, it means she cannot start her online financial consulting business until there are quicker speeds.

"Any delay in providing quicker broadband would be a nightmare for me," she said.

Penny Dent, of Norden Mead, said she cannot Skype her family in Australia because of the slow speed, while Kirsty Henniker said she was 'disgusted' with BT.

Another resident, who wished to remain anonymous, said: "MK is such a modern place but stuck in old times for internet in new areas."

Frustrating: Emma Best is unable to start her online business

Milton Keynes councillor Jenni Ferrans, whose ward includes Walton Grange, added: "When broadband is this bad it hits families, making their life more difficult."

A BT spokesman said the deployment of fibre broadband to Walton Grange as part of the Broadband Delivery UK partnership between MK Council and BT has moved from phase one to three, adding: "There are various challenges in providing fibre broadband technology to the area, namely which type of technology to deploy."

There is plenty of 'pod-tential'

Vision: Neil Fulton is the man in charge of the pods project which is coming to MK

Share your views on this

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

MORE details about the driverless pods have emerged, MK NEWS can reveal.

Neil Fulton, programme director of the pods at the transport catapult network, said the first pod is scheduled to arrive in December and that the first three devices are likely to be seen on our pavements by next summer.

The idea behind the pods is to help reduce carbon emissions and minimise congestion by getting some cars off the road.

On Thursday business secretary Vince Cable was on hand to unveil the catapult network at The Pinnacle.

Mr Fulton gave MK NEWS some interesting insights into the challenges facing the project, such as what 'personality' the pods may need and that the Highway Code may need adapting for autonomous vehicles to use the pavements.

He said: "These pods won't be ploughing through pedestrians!

"The pods in Milton Keynes may act differently to how a pod may need to act elsewhere.

"The pods need to tell the difference between a plastic bag and a dog and it takes pretty complex technology for that.

"There is a lot of work to be done but it's really exciting to be part of."

Milton Keynes Council will need to consider the Highway Code as it would be illegal to put the pods on the pavement without some form of exemption.

Mr Fulton added: "It's an area of the Highway Code for autonomous vehicles that is going to have to change."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tom Bliss feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Luton, Dunstable and Stevenage areas and Tom is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tom a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

DO YOU HAVE AN UNDERPERFORMING PENSION?

I regularly meet new clients many of whom first read one of my articles in MK News. Retirement planning is the most common topic of interest. I estimate that in 8 out of 10 cases clients have underperforming pensions. What's more many of them aren't even aware of the fact! Don't worry if you are one of them. You make up the vast majority of the UK population today.

What is unfortunate is that by not having their pensions reviewed most people are delaying their retirement sometimes by more than 10 years! How do I know this?

We review clients' previous pensions regularly. In 8 out of 10 cases our system, The Wealth Investment Strategy, has produced superior returns over periods of up to 19 years i.e. the length of time our system has been available. So what does this mean in terms of figures?

Over the last 19 years Wealth Investment Strategy has achieved an average return of 10.2% p.a. Over the same period the average annual return for the Pension Balanced Managed Fund sector has been 7.09%. Over the last 15 years, we don't have the figures for

Tony Byrne
Chartered and Certified Financial Planner
Author of Wealth Magic

19 years, the average with profits fund compound annual return has been 5.1% compared to WIS which has achieved 7.3%.

Furthermore in the 2 out of 10 cases where a client's existing pension's performance has bettered ours it is usually because they have inadvertently opted for a higher risk investment strategy which is totally at odds with their declared attitude to investment risk! If we were to compare their existing pensions' performance to WIS on a like for like basis then our strategy would be very rarely beaten.

The reason why investment performance is so important is because the greater the investment return the sooner your pension value can reach the target you need to give you the income you require at your preferred retirement age. Basically this means you can retire earlier.

It's really as simple as that. We use lifetime cashflow planning software called Money Forecast to help you plan your retirement rather than leave it to chance.

If you are approaching retirement and/or considering early retirement and need advice why not get in touch?

Residents make the Queen's honours list

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

A HOST of city figures have been given honours for their work as part of the Queen's birthday celebrations.

Buckinghamshire Fire and Rescue Service's Chief Fire Officer, Mark Jones, has been awarded the Queen's Fire Service Medal in her birthday honours, which were published on Friday.

Mark, 52, who lives in Milton Keynes, said: "I am delighted to have been honoured in this way. I hope that the award is recognition of the fantastic outcomes that Buckinghamshire Fire and Rescue Service have achieved for the people of Buckinghamshire and Milton Keynes."

Among those who were awarded CBEs included Jan Flawn, who founded healthcare provider PJ Care in 2000.

Jan said: "All I have ever wanted to do is care for people in the very best way I can.

"And, I suppose, this wonderful recognition from Her Majesty the Queen is a lovely way of confirming that I have been able to do just that."

Others awarded a CBE included Professor Susan Vinnicombe of Cranfield University, Derek Harvey for his service with the Department for Work and Pensions, and Milton Keynes Council's chief executive David Hill, who has been recognised for his services to local government.

Those receiving MBEs included police officer Alistair Borland, Neil Barnfather for services to the visually impaired in telecommunications and Luing Henry Cowley, who has a building named after him at Milton Keynes Hospital.

The chairman of Central Milton Keynes Town Council, Dr Rebecca Kurth, and Eleanor Gingell were made medallists of the order.

Stony folk enjoy big sing-a-long

HUNDREDS of people gathered for a good old sing and dance at the annual Folk on the Green in Stony Stratford on Sunday.

The family-friendly event on Horsefair Green was kicked off by Anna Hester and featured performances by acts including New Bays, Destiny Africa, Strawberry Mules, Mischa and Chrystina Thomlin.

The event is run by volunteers and, as usual, the line-up for the show was kept a surprise on the day for the crowd.

Plan for city's HS2 college is derailed

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes may have missed out making the final shortlist for the HS2 rail college due to its location.

That is the verdict of Milton Keynes South MP Iain Stewart who was spearheading a campaign for the institution to be set up here.

To go alongside the high speed rail network, a dedicated further education college is planned to open in 2017 to train engineers who could construct the railway.

In March Mr Stewart joined Milton Keynes Council and the South East Midlands Local Enterprise Partnership (SEMLEP) in bidding for it to come to the city.

But MK missed out on the shortlist, with Manchester, Derby, Doncaster or Birmingham on the final destination list.

The MP believes that geography could have been the main reason. Mr Stewart said: "One of the principal criteria set was that the location of the college should help geographically rebalance the economy of the country. Being in the South East was always going to make it difficult on that score."

Andrew Pakes, Labour's parliamentary candidate for Milton Keynes South, added: "We need to learn lessons from other cities about how we bring together better coalitions to fight for resources we need."

Stage is set to expand Stables

BY JAMES AVERILL
james.averill@mk-news.co.uk

THE proposed expansion of The Stables will improve facilities for customers and performers alike, according to its head of marketing.

A full planning application has been submitted to Milton Keynes Council for two proposed extensions to the popular venue, which is located in Stockwell Lane, Wavendon.

The first extension, on the north side of the auditorium, would feature studio space, digital recording facilities and additional office space for staff.

Further building work would also take place to the south side of the original building to provide a new studio theatre and performance space, foyer, public toilets, performers' dressing rooms and extended catering facilities. It's also hoped that there will be an additional 60 car parking spaces for visitors to the venue, which was founded in 1970 by Sir John Dankworth and Dame Cleo Laine.

Now head of marketing and communications, Matthew Sanders, says the expansion would improve facilities for everyone if it is given the green light.

He said: "The Stables is in a good place, but this is in response to the customers and performers and it's trying to make facilities better than they already are.

"The main focus is the performing area, which would hold somewhere between 100-120 people."

The application is expected to be discussed by the council's development control committee in the coming months.

MK'S BIG WEEKEND

Milton Keynes is the place to enjoy yourself

MEMBERS of Milton Keynes Council's new cabinet are pleased to see so many big events being held in the city.

They said popular attractions like the Dragon Boat Festival, Mascot Olympics and gigs at the bowl benefit the city's economy, as well as bring the community together.

Mick Legg, portfolio holder for public realm, said: "This weekend just shows how diverse the city is.

"People don't need to go somewhere else like London to have a good time."

Rob Middleton, cabinet member for resources, efficiency and growth, added: "These events create jobs and prosperity in our communities.

"They benefit our small businesses, who cater for the thousands of visitors attracted from afar to our city events."

A feast of fun for all the family

THIS weekend is jam-packed full of events for all ages taking place across the city. With chart toppers, dragon boats, mascots and more, there will be something for everyone to enjoy in MK's Big Weekend

THE Great Linford Waterside Festival will kick start MK's Big Weekend of family fun on Friday.

The music stage will come to life from 6.30-9pm before activities including fairground rides, arts and crafts stalls, music, dance and entertainment take place on Saturday between 11.30am and 7pm and Sunday from 11.45am to 5.30pm.

MK NEWS reporter Jessica Duncan is looking forward to meeting all the perfect pooches strutting their stuff when she is guest judge for the dog show on Sunday from 1pm.

There is a £2.50 parking charge but entrance to the event, at Linford Manor, is free.

Family and friends can also have a splashing time at the Dragon Boat Festival at Willen Lake.

The annual event on Sunday promises to provide a variety of entertainment – and not just on the water.

Crews representing businesses and organisations and groups of friends will battle it out in five-boat races from 9.30am until 5.15pm.

This year 47 teams have signed up to help raise money for 2014's charity – Age UK Milton Keynes.

There will also be entertainment on the bank side, including music, food and fun activities for all ages.

Last year the event raised £17,000 for Willen Hospice.

Kings of Leon will be ending the weekend in style when they take to the stage at The National Bowl on Sunday evening.

The band will be performing their hits following appearances from supporting acts Haim, Twin Atlantic and The Last Internationale.

The Followill family – including singer Caleb, drummer Nathan, lead guitarist Matthew and bassist Jared – secured their fourth UK number one album with Mechanical Bull earlier this year.

Some of their famous hits expected to be performed include Supersoaker, Charmer, Sex on Fire, Use Somebody and The Bucket.

Gates open at 2pm with the music starting at 3.30pm.

The open air concert is set to attract thousands of fans from all over the UK.

Riding high with course at college

BY JESSICA DUNCAN
jessica.duncan@mk-news.co.uk

TWO teenagers who missed out on their education have been given a second chance thanks to a charity.

Rosie Jupp, 14, and Abbie Howard, 15, have got into Milton Keynes College to study health, social and child care, with help from Ride High.

Both girls missed out on secondary school education but the city charity has helped them build their confidence and skills through riding horses and taking part in educational activities.

Rosie, from Monkston, was bullied at school when she was 11. She was pushed around and even had her hair cut off. She lost all her confidence and was terrified of returning to school so was tutored at home.

In October last year she became a member of Ride High.

She said: "Ride High has really boosted my confidence. I never used to be happy in a group but now I don't mind and have made friends here."

Abbie, from Pennyland, found it hard to make friends and thought she was going to be bullied because of it. She was also a young carer for one of her parents who suffered with mental health issues.

Both girls are excited to start college in September but will continue to visit Ride High in Great Brickhill.

Grace Wilkinson, children's manager, said: "For Rosie and Abbie, their course will give them the opportunity to get qualifications for careers they had not even considered."

On the road to the

Driving forward projects

THERE are more than 30 projects and programmes underway at the Transport Systems Catapult in The Pinnacle, which all aim to find more intelligent ways of improving our transport network.

Here are a few other examples:

■ Departure planning information – this aims to provide a real-time departure plan for aeroplane controllers to reduce delays

■ Air quality control – helps to meet EU limits on air pollution by examining how variable speed limits on roads and using lanes better can improve air quality without hampering mobility

■ Stem cell logistics – making sure that stem cells can be delivered to laboratories and hospitals within a critical time frame, which can help save lives.

■ Understanding accessibility – examines obstacles preventing travel

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

BUSINESS Secretary Vince Cable said Milton Keynes was the ideal place for a transport catapult when it was unveiled at The Pinnacle on Thursday.

The 'Imovation Centre', one of seven catapults launched in the country to look at themes like offshore renewable energy and satellite applications, will help make journeys by rail, air, road and sea more efficient by using the latest technology to help people get around.

"There was a lot of competition to have this centre but Milton Keynes is a forward-thinking city," said Mr Cable.

"If we are able to progress we could become one of the world leaders in this field."

It is estimated that the hub could help generate as much as £90billion a year in Britain by creating smarter ways of getting about.

Following the opening, staff at the centre provided demonstrations and simulations of some of the projects on offer.

Iain Stewart, MP for Milton Keynes South, pictured, said: "The city is a natural home for this because we are a dynamic, forward-thinking city, which is exactly what the transport catapult is all about. It's also good for the local economy to have this here."

Mapping travel tweets

SENTIMENT mapping is one of the projects that will help commuters map their journeys better.

For example, if somebody tweets that a train has broken down, sentiment mapping puts the post on a map of the country to make others aware of the problem.

It also works with businesses as they can see what people are saying about them on social media.

Mike Saunders is the CEO of Common Place, which runs sentiment mapping.

He told MK NEWS: "This puts customers at the centre of short and long-term decisions for a business."

future of transport

In the right place: Vince Cable tells MK NEWS reporter Scott Kirk the city is the ideal location for the centre that could generate up to £90billion a year by finding smarter ways to use transport

Green light given to traffic improvements

TWO projects aimed at improving traffic on our roads were also outlined at the launch of the centre.

The instant weather project will combine highly localised weather forecasts with transport information, which aims to improve how a transport system can adapt to extreme conditions such as snow and high winds.

Meanwhile, the sensor data fusion scheme looks at different ways to use traffic lights.

This means that rather than lights dictating when a car can stop and go, the flow of traffic will control which ones will be red and green using GPS technology, smart phones and in-car computers.

NSPCC race gives friends the hump

BY JESSICA DUNCAN
jessica.duncan@mk-news.co.uk

A POLICE officer and a serving soldier will be running the NSPCC Milton Keynes Half Marathon – dressed as a camel.

Mathew Brown and Richard Bazeley are running the 13.1-mile route on July 6 to try and break the Guinness World Record for the fastest half marathon in a two person pantomime costume.

The duo are raising money for Breakthrough Breast Cancer as Richard's mother and mother-in-law, as well as Mathew's mother-in-law, are all survivors of the disease.

Richard, 31, who works for Thames Valley Police, said: "I have no idea why we would do this in the middle of July when it's most likely to be boiling hot, but it just adds to the intensity of the challenge and best simulates the natural environment of the camel – we're hoping to really get into character."

Mathew, 30, from the British Army, added: "When we cross that finish line, it will give us a great sense of achievement knowing we have been able to support a cause we really believe in."

Camel: Mathew Brown and Richard Bazeley with Mel Wright from Sweatshop in Xscape, which has supported them by providing kit

Joining Mathew and Richard will be about 70 David Lloyd Redway Runners, including Jennifer Sangster from Broughton, pictured right.

The 39-year-old customer service business manager for Santander said: "The NSPCC is a charity I really feel strongly about and it is our charity of the year."

The race – now in its 16th year and supported by MK NEWS – will travel from Webber Independent School through the city's redways and past the Grand Union Canal.

Firm roars into action for Leo

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

MORE than £500 worth of toys have been donated to the children's ward at MK Hospital as part of Leo's Appeal – our charity of the year.

They were handed over by Mirus IT, based in Sunrise Parkway, Linford Wood, which will be donating more toys this Christmas.

Paul Tomlinson, managing director of the computer support company, said he wanted to give the hospital the toys in case his three children – Eoin, eight, Sorcha, three and Iris, one – became poorly.

"We've got three young children and at some point we will probably end up at MK Hospital, so it's nice knowing that there are toys for children to play with," said Mr Tomlinson, whose company has also donated a flight simulator to Bletchley Air Cadets.

"There are many people within our business who have young children, so we wanted to donate to Leo's Appeal."

Jenny Howells, from Milton Keynes Hospital Charity, said: "We see around 36,000 children and their families each year so this toy donation will make a real difference."

The appeal – which has a mascot called Leo the Lion – was launched in September 2013 to raise £200,000 to improve children's services at the hospital.

A summer fair will take place in aid of the appeal at Bradwell Abbey on Sunday from 11.30am to 3.30pm.

Admission is free and attractions will include more than 50 stalls and a bouncy castle.

Will it be Happy Days for Scott in musical?

BY SCOTT KIRK
scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

THESE Happy Days are yours but not necessarily mine tonight when I take to the stage for my big acting comeback.

I've got a walk-on part in Happy Days: A New Musical at Milton Keynes Theatre, and while I can't wait to renew my love of theatre after studying GCSE and A-level drama at school, I must admit I'm getting slightly nervous about it.

It's just the one line – nothing compared to what the other actors will have to remember – but it will be by far the biggest audience I've ever performed in front of, even if I'm only on stage for a minute or two.

As long as I don't forget my line, I think I'll be alright!

I've been asked to put on an American accent, which will be a real laugh for my friends and colleagues who will be in the audience cheering (or heckling) me on.

I used to suffer from horrendous nerves before going on stage – and I can't see this being any different – so for the past week I've been in front of a mirror, practicing that line again and again. Prior preparation prevents poor performance, as my dad says.

At least I don't have to sing – my voice is terrible so there would have been a lot of unhappy audience members if they had to listen to my dulcet tones.

t Happy Days runs until June 21 at the theatre.

Tickets cost between £17.90 and £42.40 and to book visit www.atgtickets.com/miltonkeynes

Happy to oblige: Reporter Scott Kirk will take to the stage at MK Theatre tonight

Tickford Abbey Residential Home has a long standing excellent reputation in the local community and beyond.

It is run by Greensleeves Homes Trust- a not for profit charitable organisation providing high quality care for older people in care homes across the UK. For too long, care homes' reputations across the country have been marred by negative press, generated by a small number of very badly run homes. Images and videos have quite rightly highlighted the need to improve the way we treat our older generation.

Greensleeves want to show the other side of the care business by opening the doors of Tickford Abbey to the local community and beyond.

We believe our home to be a truly 'person centred' well led home from home, providing dignity and respect for our residents' and we would love for you to come and meet us all and see what we do.

This date coincides with the NAPA (National Association of Providers of Activities for older people) challenge and we will be holding a 'Britain in the 60's day-with a tea party and fancy dress.

The residents and staff of Tickford Abbey would like to invite you to join them for our "Britain in the 60's" themed party for:

National Care Home Open Day On Friday 20th June at 12:30pm till 5:00pm

Stroll around our beautiful grounds or have a grand tour of our home, our residents and staff will be pleased to help you.

At 3pm we will be holding a summer tea party in the garden, with 60's music and more!

Cult children's TV show to take to the stage

FOLLOWING last year's sell-out Edinburgh run, Knightmare Live is taking to the road with a cavalcade of adventure, characters, puzzles and monsters in this critically acclaimed stage adaption of the cult TV classic.

At The Stables on Sunday, new Treguard, Paul Flannery of Rayguns Look Real Enough, and a team of top comedians will guide an audience member through Lord Fear's epic realm, but will they succeed in their quest, or fall foul to one of his schemes?

Knightmare Live promises to recapture the essence of everyone's favourite role-playing children's television show. The interactive cast features the talents of Tom Bell of Tommy and the Weeks, Paul Duncan McGarrity and Jessica Fostekew, who bring to life characters old and new to help and hinder the Dungeoneer with riddles, monsters and challenges.

Tickets are £15 for the show, which starts at 8pm and is suitable for teenagers and adults. For tickets call the box office on 01908 280800.

■ To see if you think it is suitable for your child watch the video at www.mkweb.co.uk

Review | MK Gallery | Night In | Out and about

I DON'T know about you, but when the big bad world has left you feeling battered and bruised, there is nothing better than escaping for a bit of rest and relaxation.

Whittlebury Hall promises to 'take you out of your daily routine from the moment you arrive' – and it certainly doesn't disappoint.

My husband and I enjoyed a One Night Deluxe Spa Day, which included use of the heat and ice experience to invigorate the body with the changing temperatures.

Our package also included a back, face, scalp and shoulder massage with hot stones, which we found really relaxing.

I also enjoyed a lovely new strawberries and cream treatment. My body was exfoliated with a salt scrub with strawberry seeds and moisturised with gold dry oil. My husband also had a relaxing Elemis deep tissue back massage, designed especially for men to relieve stress and tension.

This was followed by a three-course dinner at fine-dining restaurant Murrays, which boasts two AA rosettes.

The wide ranging menu was bookended by expertly presented canapés, an amuse-bouche and petits fours.

For starters I had a twist on the classic ham, egg and chips, which featured serrano ham, truffled scramble egg, a gold quails egg and raisin puree and was full of flavour. The Cornish crab with apple, avocado and parmesan was also delicious.

Our mains were 35 day aged beef with stacked potatoes horseradish, onion, tongue and marrowbone. The only slight disappointment was the beef was served 'as the chef thought it should be', which was very rare and it would have been nicer if the meat had been cooked to order.

I enjoyed the banham chicken breast complete with Jersey royal potatoes, garlic puree, asparagus and pancetta.

This was followed by a very pleasurable chocolate, banana and caramel dessert, which was the highlight of the meal.

There's no doubting the quality of the ingredients and exceptional presentation of all the dishes and, for a fine-dining restaurant, the portions were a good size. The service was also top notch.

The next morning our buffet breakfast featured everything you could imagine – from cereal and fruit through to pastries and a full English.

Whittlebury Hall makes you feel like you are in a protective bubble where friendly staff will look after you, give you nice things to eat and drink and make you feel lovely – and now I feel like I can take on the world.

A NIGHT of music and film will take place at MK Gallery on Friday.

Following on from the highly successful Flux programme last year, live music and film return.

Nope are a band from Leeds and Bradford who will take to the stage with their futuristic sound, while Black Spring is a newly formed drums/guitar/electronics trio, who play heavily repetitive, fx drenched improvised noise rock.

Beechers and Thirsty Work will complete the line-up of bands.

Background projections will be displayed on film as the bands perform, which will include excerpts from feature films and other artists.

Tickets cost £5 and to pre-book, call 01908 676900.

it'sdreadful!

HAVING seen the actors in Penny Dreadful I thought I was about to unearth a real treat on Sky Atlantic, writes Scott Kirk.

With James Bond actor Timothy Dalton, Bond girl Eva Green, Doctor Who assistant Billie Piper and Josh Hartnett involved, I was expecting something special.

But instead, I found the show had something in common with its title.

Perhaps I was just building the show up too much because of the big-name actors, but I found the whole thing a bit too weird for my liking, especially Green's character, who is all over the place.

I don't like hearing Billie Piper's Irish accent and there is no real reason for the gore, violence and nudity.

I found myself not caring for the characters and I won't be watching this one again.

peaceevent

CELEBRATE the anniversary of one the city's most popular landmarks on Sunday.

petefirman

BBC One's The Magicians' Pete Firman will preview his Edinburgh show at The Stables on Friday, July 4.

He will be thrashing out new jokes and tricks on the stage in Wavendon and is one of the country's most recognisable magicians and comedians, making his trademark quality tricks with plenty of laughs to match.

He has made dozens of guest appearances on all manner of shows on the box, from The Sarah Millican Television Programme to Something For The Weekend.

He is also a regular at the Edinburgh Comedy Festival having performed for seven years in a row at the prestigious event for those who love a laugh.

The Telegraph describes him as the 'new poster boy for British magic' and he has even written a book – Tricks To Freak Out Your Friends.

Other credits include fronting game shows Stakeout and Wait For It.

Pete will be on Stage Two from 8.45pm and tickets cost £10 from the box office on 01908 280800.

IN THE latest column from The Parks Trust, MK LIFE speaks to CHRIS HAYSEY. Chris is the new outdoor pursuits and water sports centre manager at Willen Lake

BEING on water is a passion.

I've previously been a watersports instructor and run my own kite and windsurfing business in St Lucia.

It's great to be back in the UK and I'm lucky to be managing one of MK's favourite watersports and leisure attractions.

Willen Lake has been awarded a four star rating from TripAdvisor, which we are all proud of.

More than a million visitors each year come to Willen to take part in watersports activities, go cycling, enjoy the playground, play mini-golf, try the high ropes course or simply picnic along the shore.

This makes my job really varied – one day I could be overseeing a major event like the Dragon Boat Festival, the next helping with a corporate activity or school trip.

July will be an exciting time at Willen Lake as the International Festival is here. Be sure to get your tickets for Ilotopie, which we're sponsoring.

This colourful, floating spectacle with fire and pyrotechnics will see people literally walking on water – Willen Lake will never be the same again!

fraseranderson

FRASER Anderson is a singer-songwriter who is highly regarded by the most acclaimed of his peers.

Championed by such high-profile fans as Bob Harris, Danny Thompson, Will Ackerman and Chuck Berry, this Edinburgh-born artist combines introspective lyricism and inventive open tunings.

A few years back he was a regular member of the iconic Dougie Maclean band in Scotland.

Now, he has three albums under his belt, a fourth written, a publisher in Paris and management in Toronto.

Fraser Anderson plays at The Stables at 8.45pm on Friday.

Tickets cost £10 in advance at www.stables.org or from the box office on 01908 280800. Entry on the door is £12.

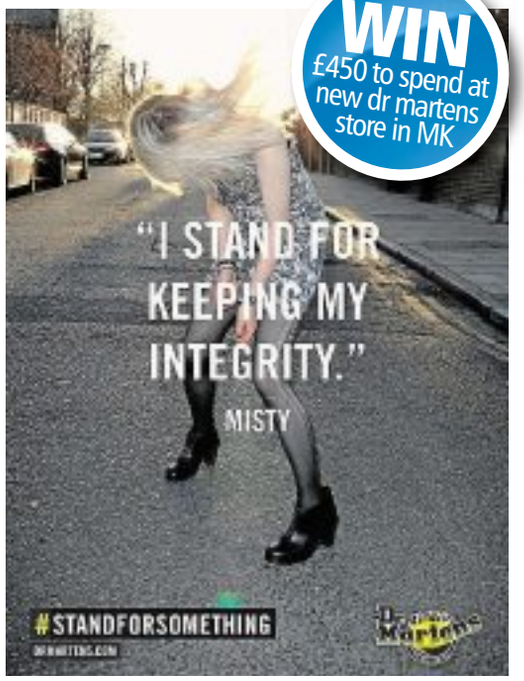
drmartens



DR MARTENS has, and will always be, one of the coolest brands out there.

The list of influential people who choose the brand to be their footwear is endless.

Originally the working man's boot, it is thought the brand got its first rock 'n' roll endorsement by The Who's Pete Townshend in 1966.

Since then it has left arguably the biggest footprint of all on the fashion industry.

And it's as relevant as it ever was today, being sported by the latest models such as Agyness Deyn and music stars like Gwen Stefani.

Now the firm, based in the nearby Northamptonshire village of Wollaston, is giving you the chance to tell the world what you stand for and win £450 worth of credit to spend at the new Dr Martens store in thecentre:mk.

We want to hear from free-thinking individuals who stand for something in their own unique way. Non-conformity? Individuality? Your generation? Whatever you stand for, we want to know about it.

For a chance to win this fantastic prize simply take to Twitter and tell us what you stand for.

Finish this tweet: "I stand for..." with text or a photo, making sure you include @YourMKWeb and @DrMartens with the #STANDFORSOMETHING and #DRMARTENSMILTONKEYNES hashtags to win.

The winner will be chosen at random and invited to claim their prize from the Dr Martens Milton Keynes store.

So make sure you head online to have a chance of winning!

filmreview

COMEDY sequels are always a risk but mercifully 22 Jump Street exceeds its predecessor by a long way.

After getting through High School (twice) officers Schmidt (Jonah Hill) and Jenko (Channing Tatum) are off to college. But when Jenko starts hanging out with the football team and Schmidt becomes immersed in the art major scene, the duo begin to question their partnership. It's no longer just about the case as the boys must figure out if their relationship has a future.

With plenty of parody action from the get go, including a side splitting fight with an octopus, 22 Jump Street starts as it means to go on.

The oddball bromance between the two unlikely heroes is what gives this film momentum and makes it work from start to finish, with their ability to read each other's minds making the whole thing appear so effortless and natural.

Tatum is likeable as the oafish hunk whose best comedy moments are born out of his own stupidity. Hill and his constant brooding, however, become tiresome pretty early on. The wit can fall short, but it's still a strong sequel that beats conventional buddy cop movies.

What should you pay to an Estate Agent to sell your property?

Why does Local Estate Agent only charge 0.5%?

Local Estate Agent is an independent, family run business launched 4 years ago in Cambridgeshire. Founder Donna Hewitt had worked for traditional high street estate agents for over 20 years and realised that many of the running costs and commissions (passed on to vendors) were unnecessary.

The vast majority of people buying property now search online using websites such as Rightmove, so Donna created Local Estate Agent to provide all the services needed to sell property but at a fraction of the cost. The concept allows an agent to work from a home-office environment using the latest technology and techniques to provide a local, professional, dedicated and more personal service.

Each agent has a limit on the number of properties being managed at any one time and allows customers to have contact with their dedicated agent from 9am till 10pm 7 days a week.

The result... Lower estate agent fees but no compromise on service!!!

The services offered by Local Estate Agent have been successfully tried and tested. Vendors in Milton Keynes can now take advantage of this bright and fresh approach to estate agency with confidence. Also, with options that include no upfront payments and nothing to pay until completion of sale...

What have you got to lose?

Champion bucks up

Up your game: Ricciardo has outshone Vettel in this year's championship

WORLD champion Sebastian Vettel was told by his Red Bull team to buck his ideas up after Daniel Ricciardo's impressive start to the season.

The warning came from Red Bull's motorsport advisor Helmut Marko, who told the German driver to adapt his driving and stop complaining about the new rules after the Chinese Grand Prix in April.

He said to the BBC: "I told him: 'You're a top driver, it's up to you. You have to do it.'

"If he can't sort out the car, the easiest thing is the driver. He has to raise his game."

Vettel did just that as he squeezed into a podium position and third place in a dramatic Canadian Grand Prix a week-and-a-half ago and he will be hoping to maintain that momentum at the Austrian Grand Prix this weekend.

It is the first time since 2002 that the Austrian Grand Prix is back on the calendar and it takes place at the Red Bull ring – the team's own circuit.

"I'm really happy that we will race there," Vettel said.

"The Red Bull Ring is a short track, with only a few turns, but it's very challenging. There are also a lot of elevation changes, which makes it interesting and fun."

Ricciardo, meanwhile, comes into the race on the back of sensational success in Canada and he will be hoping to gain more ground on the Mercedes drivers of Lewis Hamilton and Nico Rosberg, who before Canada looked unstoppable.

"It's great to be going to Red Bull's home race after an awesome weekend in Canada," said the Aussie, who has impressed in his first season at Red Bull having driven for their sister team Toro Rosso last year.

"It's very odd going to what, essentially, is a new race but in a place where the racing history is firmly established," he said.

"I'm sure the return of the Austrian Grand Prix will get off to a really good start."

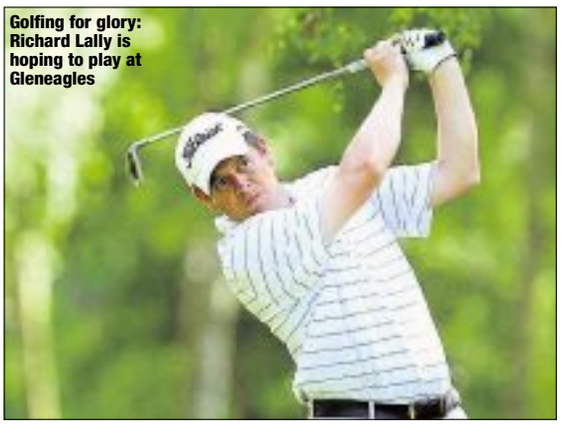
Gleneagles trip awaits



Golfing for glory: Richard Lally is hoping to play at Gleneagles

A TILT at golfing glory awaits amateur Dean Hooper and Aspley Guise and Woburn Sands PGA professional Richard Lally as they bid to reach the Lombard Trophy grand final at Gleneagles.

Hooper teed up a chance to tread the fairways of the King's Course at the famous Scottish resort between September 3 and 4 when he won his club qualifying competition.

He and Lally now advance to the regional final at Coventry Golf Club on Thursday, July 17, where they will compete against up to 70 other clubs for the chance to secure one of 16 prized spots available for the 36-hole grand final.

The tournament, now in its 30th year, attracts entries from upwards of 700 clubs across Great Britain and Ireland. Lombard originally sponsored the tournament from 1995 to 2006 before returning as headline sponsor in 2013.

The PGA National Pro-Am Championship has a total prize fund of £80,000, with the winning professional at the grand final taking home a cheque for £12,000.

Hooper is a 36-year-old asbestos supervisor from Milton Keynes. He has been playing golf for 12 months and plays off a handicap of 21. His interests apart from golf include running for charity and snowboarding. Lally, 37, has been a professional at Aspley Guise and Woburn Sands for 15 years.

Last year's winners were PGA professional Ian Walley and amateur partner Ian Neal from Kedleston Park Golf Club in Derbyshire.

BADMINTON England has reaffirmed its commitment to get the nation playing badminton following the release of Sport England's Active People Survey results.

The Active People Survey results for April 2013 to April 2014 indicate a participation increase of 46,500, an increase of more than nine per cent on the last APS survey in October 2013.

The figures show that 613,000 people over the age of 14 are playing badminton regularly, with a significant increase in 16 to 25-year-olds playing the sport.

The results are a positive indicator for Badminton England's 'Smash Up!' programme, which was introduced last year to promote the sport to young people in secondary schools and across the wider community.

Martin: 'We'll thrive on AFC pressure at home'

BY SCOTT KIRK

scott.kirk@mk-news.co.uk

MK DONS keeper David Martin says the players will thrive on the pressure that comes with a home encounter with AFC Wimbledon after the two sides were drawn together in the first round of the Capital One Cup yesterday.

The game at stadiummk will be just the second time the sides have met, with Jon Otsemobor's 'heel of God' securing a 2-1 victory in the second round of the FA Cup back in December 2012.

There is bound to be a huge build-up to the game, with plenty of bad blood still existing between both sets of fans.

However, Martin feels that because the teams have already played each other once, both sides will treat the game like any other.

"You've got to look forward to the game and most people in football thrive on pressure," said the keeper.

"I was a part of that first game and at the time it was one of the bigger games for MK Dons, but now that we've got that first game out the way I think both teams will treat it like another game.

"I'm sure there will be a big build-up to the game but the gaffer will be getting us ready for it."

It's certainly a mouth-watering tie for fans to look forward to in the second week of August – just a few days after the first game of the league season, with those fixtures due to be published this morning.

Chairman Pete Winkelman believes that promotion is key for Dons next season and with that in mind, Martin says it is important to find the balance between doing well in the cup competitions and staying consistent in the league.

"Obviously if you do well in the cups you can get drawn against the bigger teams like your QPRs and hopefully even one of the top four teams, but then the league is your bread and butter and we want to be at least fighting for the playoffs next season," he said.

"It was a bit disappointing not to be playing for that at the end of last season – we kept doing well, but then when Peterborough slipped up we did. We need to try and do well in league and cup next season."

Stephen Gleeson departed the club last week as he finally got his wish to play Championship football with a move to Birmingham City and Martin said he could understand why the midfielder moved.

"We all want to get in the Championship and Gleese is getting into the prime of his career. He was at the end of his contract so it probably was the right time for him to move.

"He is a great talent and unfortunately he isn't playing Championship football with us, but hopefully we can get up and we can see him in that division the season after."

■ Meanwhile, Liverpool look like they could be the front-runners to secure Dele Alli's signature, with national media reports suggesting that a £3.5million bid has been tabled for the 18-year-old, with the fee potentially rising to £8million.

Manager Karl Robinson is desperate to keep hold of the youngster, who was a revelation for Dons last season, playing 37 games.

The heel of God: Jon Otsemobor scores the winner in Dons' first encounter with AFC Wimbledon in 2012. The sides will battle it out again in August

Wolves battle but it's not enough as see-saw Knights game ends in loss

MK WOLVES came up just short in a topsy-turvy encounter at home to Kings Lynn Knights.

Both sides came into the game level on points in the East Premier League and it was Wolves who got off to the stronger start. Captain Scott Aspinall led by example, picking up a great offload from Steve Datchler to cross for an early try, which Aspinall converted from MK's first attack of the game.

This was followed with another positive attack from MK as centre Arran Perry touched down, with Aspinall converting, to take the score to 12-0.

Kings Lynn rallied and their loose forward crashed through the Wolves' defence and scored under the sticks, swiftly followed by a brace from the Black Knights' pacey left winger, which swung the advantage in Kings Lynn's favour, giving them a 12-14 lead.

Arran Perry then scored a fantastic individual try, leaving Kings Lynn's defence sprawling in his wake as he crossed, but Kings Lynn scored in the corner on the half time whistle to make it 18-18 at the break.

Simple errors led to penalties, which Kings Lynn were happy to take advantage of. Their talented loose forward scored a second and shortly after they scored again, but missed the conversion to take an 18-28 lead.

MK brought the gap down to six points, but were pegged back again by Kings Lynn who made it 22-32.

MK winger, Kimo Kirby, ran under the posts to make it 32-28 with three minutes left, but that was how it finished.

MK Wolves head coach Abe Kerr said: "We should have been a bit more streetwise, should have got the ball out wide more often and should have made more of exploiting their weaker areas, but there is plenty to build on."
